Henry said, "It's too dangerous to leave you kids out here alone. Gather whatever you need and I'll take you back up to the house."

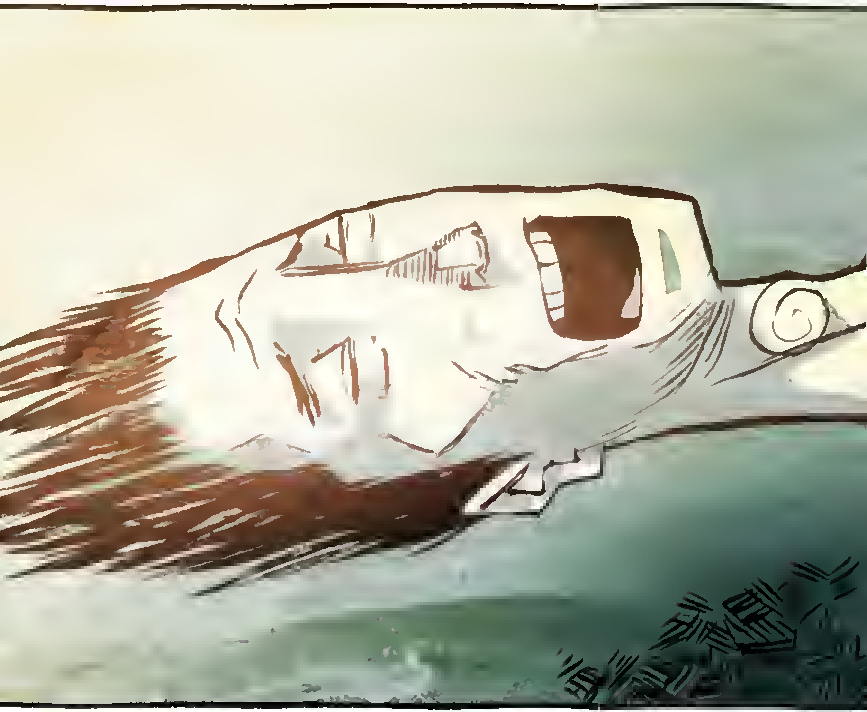
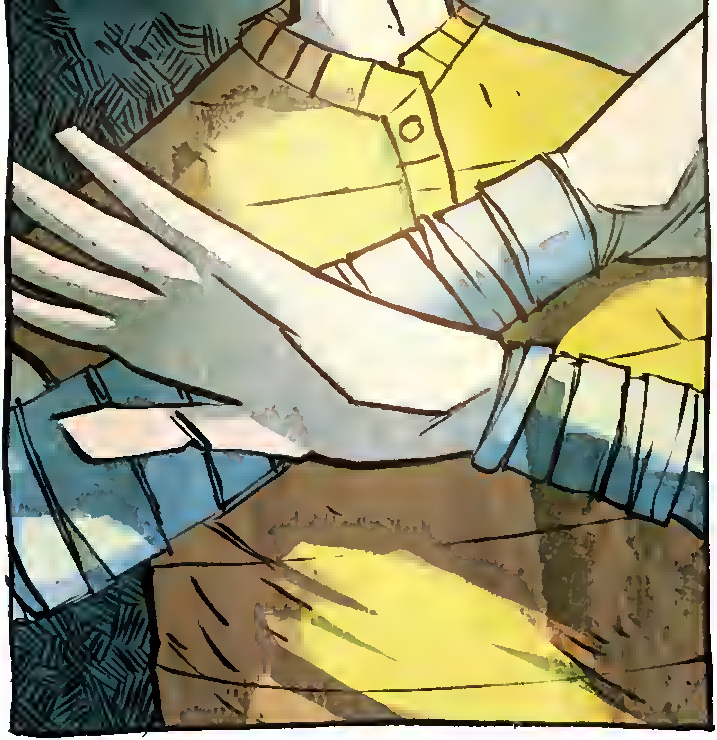
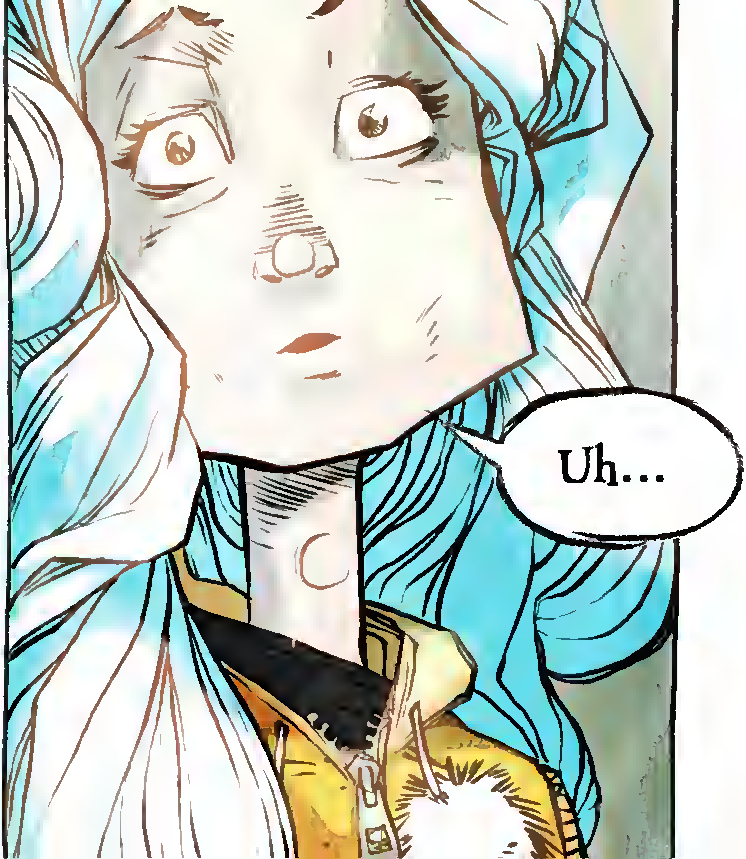
Thanks, but no thanks.
Vonna and I can take care of ourselves.

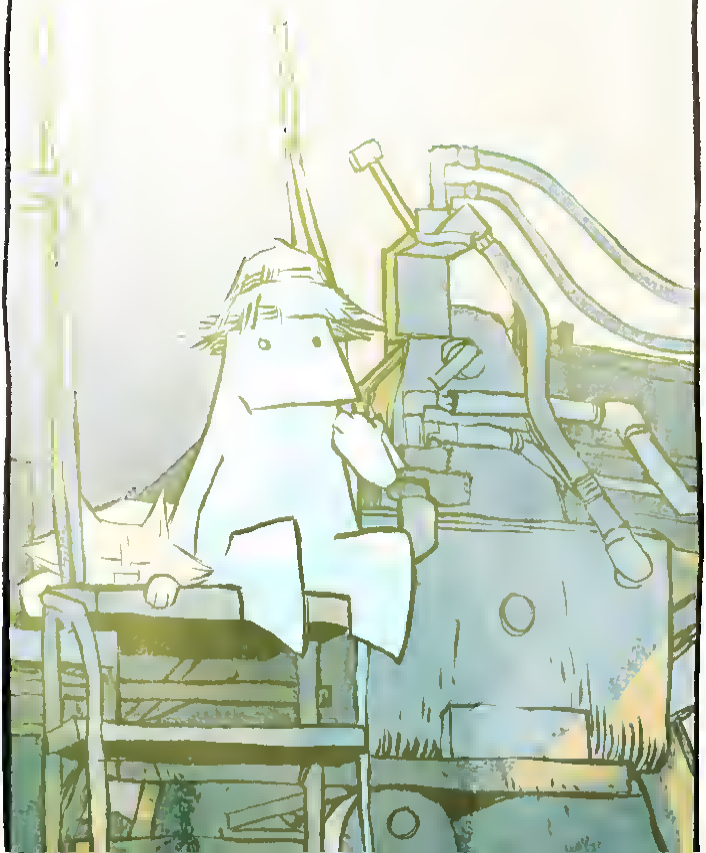


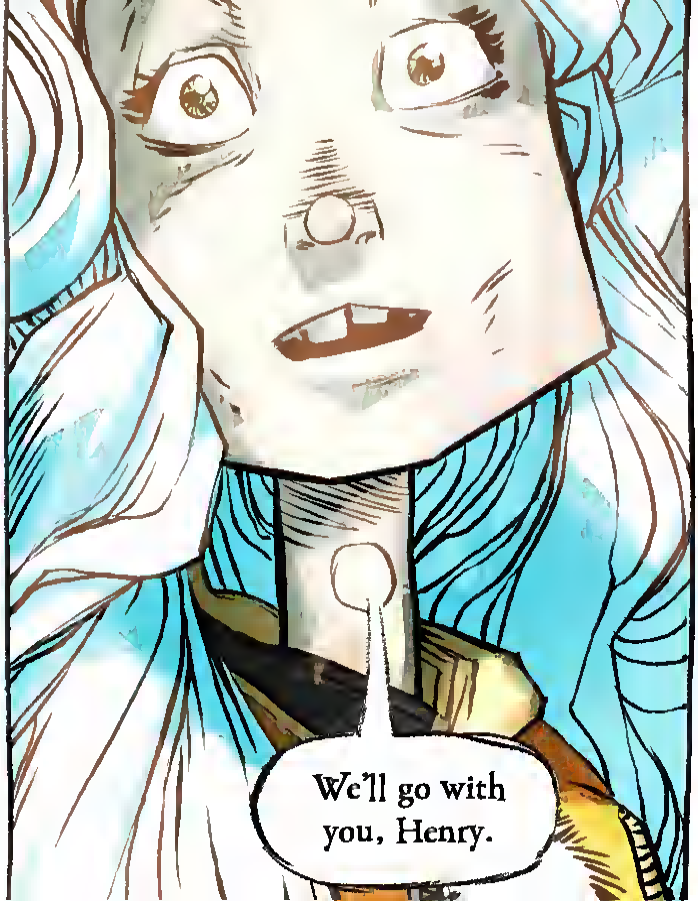




Uh...

"You can trust him."

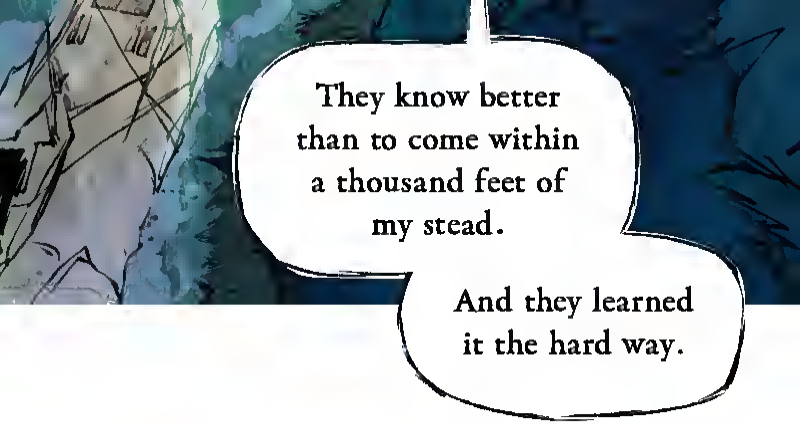




We'll go with you, Henry.

WhaT?!

You don't have to worry about those looters following us down here.



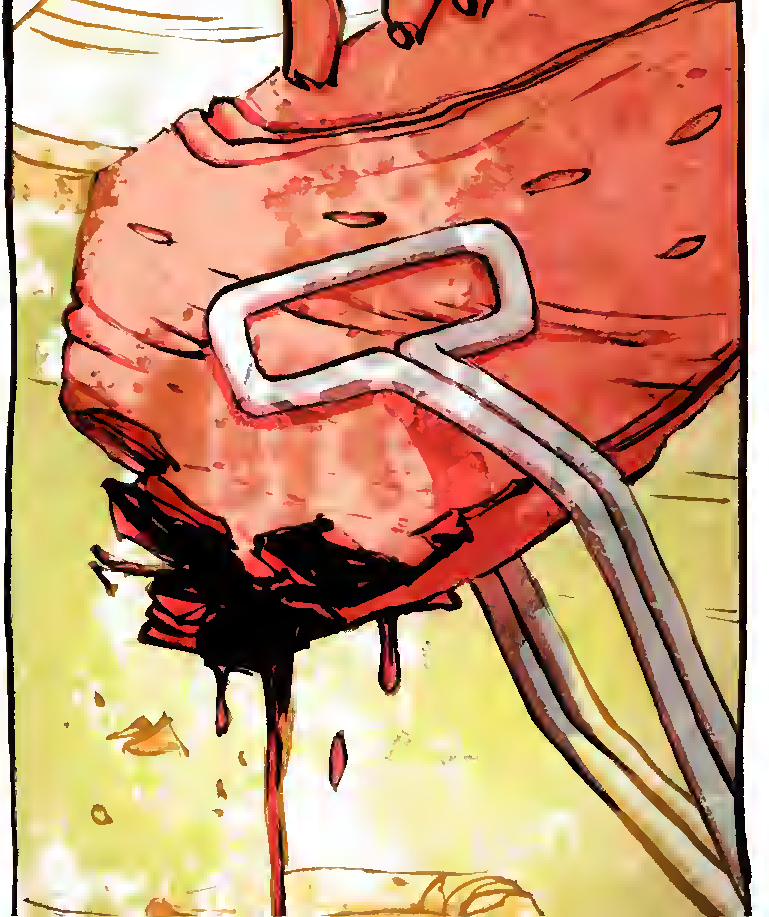
They know better than to come within a thousand feet of my stead.
And they learned it the hard way.

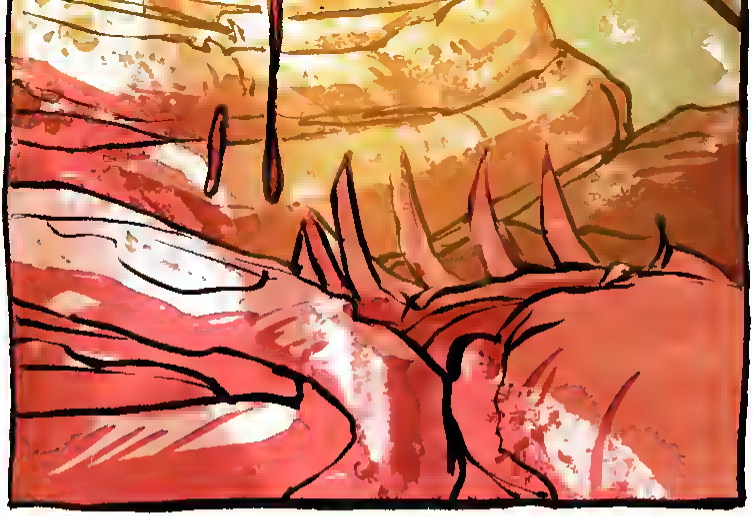
"Whoa! You live on the sands?!"

How do you kids like your egg?

BACK

It's been so long since we've had company...
...I'd almost forgotten how much I enjoyed preparing a good meal!





Henry said he found you sleeping in the woods...
so I can only imagine how hungry you must be.
We don't want to be any trouble, ma'am.

Nonsense.

Trouble' would be letting all this food go to waste!

Henry and I have more than enough to share...

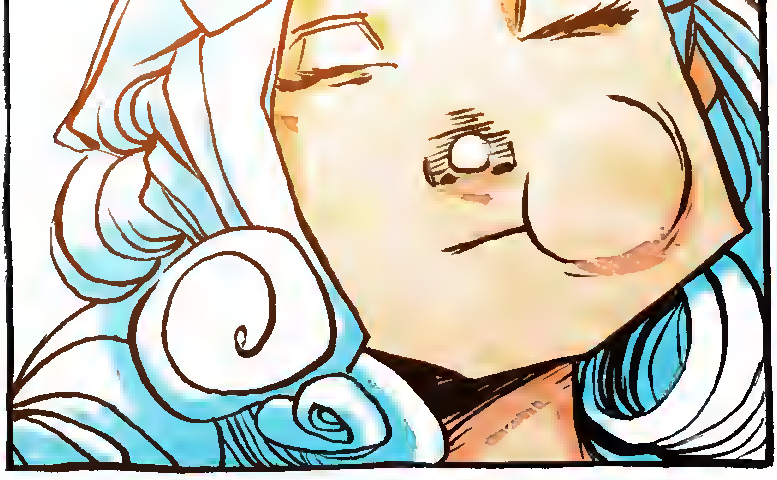
...and we're happy to have you here as long as you need.

Right, Henry?
>harrumph<

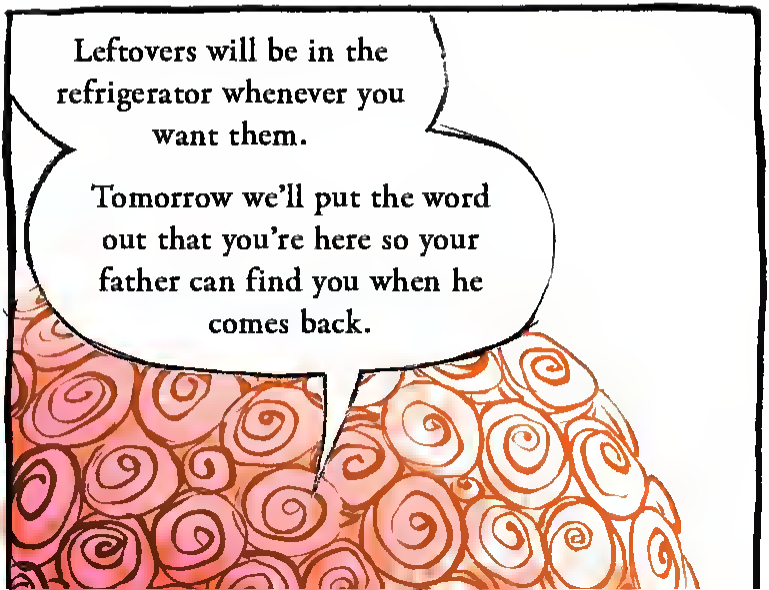
"Oh, don't mind him," Phoebe smiled. "If he didn't care he wouldn't have brought you here."

Dino wasn't used to such kindness from strangers. For the first time in a long time, he let down his guard and enjoyed their generosity.

I can't eat another bite.
I really can't.



You said that four bites ago.



Leftovers will be in the refrigerator whenever you want them.
Tomorrow we'll put the word out that you're here so your father can find you when he comes back.
